SPORTING NEWS.

An Innovation Proposed in the National Game.

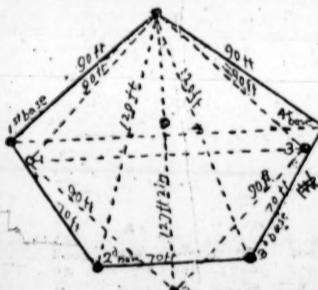

The Old-time Diamond to Be Replaced by One With Five Bases.

A Series of International Games of Football Arranged.

Kremlin's Reign Will Probably Be a Short One—The Single Scull Champion—Ship—The Child-Rivers Mill—Sporting Notes.

Lovers of the national game may be treated to an innovation in base ball next season, says the Chicago Herald. The old-time diamond with its historic four bases is apt to disappear, and in its place will be a five-cornered diamond, which is explained in the accompanying diagram. The inventor of the scheme is Cliff E. Spencer of Holla, Mo., a devoted lover of the game. Spencer thought so well of his plan that he submitted it to President Hart of the Chicago club. Hart, Capt. Anson, John Browne and others who saw the new diamond were greatly pleased with it, and thought it would tend to increase interest in the game. The league magnates have been furnished copies of the diagram, and between now and November 10, when the annual meeting will be held in this city, will canvass the proposition, and if they think favorably of it will recommend it to the National League for adoption.

The dotted lines in the diagram represent the present diamond and the heavier black lines represent the new diamond, which in appearance approaches nearer the true diamond form than what is now designated as a diamond, although really a square. The new diamond is an innovation of the game, and provides for a home base and four additional bases instead of three as now. This extra base would not, however, necessitate an additional infielder unless it is desired to make the game ten men and ten innings, which increase has been repeatedly suggested for many years by excellent critics. Under the new system four men could attend to the infield as now—the first baseman and second baseman taking care of the usual bases, the shortstop becoming third baseman, while the present third baseman would be fourth baseman. A glance at the diagram will show that the new base lines would throw the infield and fourth bases about ten feet further out than the present base lines, thus making a very much larger area for fair balls, thereby increasing the batting very considerably, besides reducing the number of foul balls.

Proposed Baseball Diamond.

It will be observed that the distances from second base to third base and from third base to fourth base are each but seventy feet. This would give the base runners better chance of stealing bases. The catcher's throwing distance is decreased from about 125 or 129 feet to 120 or 122 feet and he is in a better position to throw the ball going diagonally across the diamond, and there being no obstacle, such as pitcher or umpire, in the way. But the advantage would be still somewhat in favor of the runner, which is better than with the present dimensions, under which the ball, if properly handled, must inevitably and invariably beat the fastest runner if the pitcher does not give him too much start. A base runner, therefore, would not, however, mean so many more runs as to make games seem tedious and scores look bad, because the distance from the plate to first base and from fourth base to the plate is still ninety feet and the circle circuit is still ninety feet more than the present circuit. Thus, while there would be more base-running on the short lines, the additional circuit distance and the long distances between home and first and fourth and home, would operate against excessive run-scoring.

It is argued that the new diamond might operate to the extreme in batting, base running and run scoring. The first named objection could be overcome easily by deadening the ball to a greater extent and the second and third defects might be neutralized by the greater opportunities afforded catchers for good throwing work and the increased length of the circuit of the bases.

It is generally conceded that some changes in the game are urgently needed in order to make more attractive, to lift it out of the rut of pitcher domination into which it has fallen; in short, that it is necessary to evolve some new features to at once challenge and rivet public attention and favor. The proposed diamond would certainly achieve that much. The very novelty of it would arouse public attention and interest. But whether it would hold that interest permanently can only be ascertained by a trial of the plan, which could be done in some of the April exhibition games. If found satisfactory the new diamond might, and doubtless would, go a long way toward filling the baseball parks next season, as the novelty would bring out all the old-time lovers and patrons of the game, if only out of curiosity. Once back, the merits of the sport under new conditions might once more make these old-timers permanent patrons and enthusiasts, as of old.

INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL. As was announced in this column last Monday, the football season in this city will be inaugurated by a series of international games between picked teams of representatives of England, Ireland, Germany and America. The arrangements have already been completed for this event, which promises to be one of the most interesting of its kind ever held in this city, and the prospects are that each match will be a hotly-contested one. The series opens on Sunday afternoon, November 20, when the American and English teams will try conclusions. On the following Sunday the Irish and German elevens will be pitted against each other, and on December 4 the winning teams of the preceding matches will battle for the championship. Suitable trophies will be awarded to the winning and second teams in view of the fact that after the close of the baseball season there has hitherto been a dearth of entertainment in this city during the winter months, this series of games will doubtless be hailed by local patrons of outdoor sport with enthusiasm.

THE CHILD-RIVERS MILL. On Wednesday evening next local admirers of the marvellous art will have an opportunity of witnessing what promises to be a stubborn contest between two of its exponents in the gymnasium of the Pastime Athletic Club on North Main street. The combatants are Frank Child, the local colored pugilist, who first gained notoriety by defeating the once-famous George LaBlanche, "The Marine," and John Rivers, a young man, who, although as yet unknown to fame, is said to be capable of both taking care of himself in pretty hot company and doing his share of the work at either long or short range. Whether or not he can withstand the sledge-hammer blows dealt by the Los Angeles boot-black, however, remains to be seen, but if all that is rumored of his opponent be true Child will not have the walk-over he anticipates by any means. The contest will be for a purse, at catch weights.

THE CHOWN IN JEOPARDY. The world's steeplechase record has again been snatched from California by Tennessee, and once more Stamboul, 2:08, has been dethroned by Kremlin, whose name hereafter must be appended to the figures, 2:07. There is every reason for the belief, however, that Stamboul will retrieve his lost honors in shorts order. For Walter Stamboul is confident that the horse can still clip a couple of seconds off his record, and every one who knows the young Los Angeles driver will concede that when the determination to achieve any feat, it is almost as good as completed. Stamboul was to have been sent against his record yesterday, but a very strong wind intervened, and the attempt was deferred until today, when, given favorable conditions, the great Stamboul will eclipse all previous efforts and gain a mark which will restore him to supremacy as the equine king.

O'CONNOR AND GAUDAUER. William O'Connor, the single scull champion, and Jake Gaudauer have, we understand, come to a verbal agreement to row a match race for the championship of America, over a three-mile course, with a turn, for $1000 a side, the contest to take place in the Spring of 1893, on water that has not yet been agreed upon. It is to be hoped that nothing will occur in the interim to prevent the consummation of this match, which would open up the Exposition year on the water in the proper style, and probably be the forerunner of a number of other professional rowing events during the season. By the way, Gaudauer and George Hosmer, the double scull champions, have entered into an agreement to remain together during next season, proposing to row double, and also in single skulls, at the regatta to be held in conjunction with the World's Fair, on Lake Calumet, near Chicago. [New York Clipper.]

SPORTING NOTES. Zimmerman, the amateur bicyclist, has won over $35,000 worth of prizes with his wheel.

Lake teams of Harvard and Yale, the Princeton football team is now practicing its tricks in private.

A match is being arranged between Billy Leedom of Philadelphia and Young Mitchell of California for a purse of $8000.

Football has been prohibited by the University of Heidelberg, Germany. Nothing more dangerous than dueling is allowed.

Electioneer is now the sire of 117 standard performers, of which 116 are trotters, and thirty-two of that number are in the 2:20 list.

Reddy Gallagher, the well-known pugilist, has become a football player. He is captain and right guard of the Denver Athletic Club team.

It is stated that Joe Butler, who recently defeated Benny, will challenge the winner of the Gregarious Cattle fight. Butler is the colored light heavyweight who gave Goddard such a hot rally recently.

The Merced coursing meeting, which opens tomorrow (Tuesday), promises to be the largest ever held in the State, the entry list, which closed on Friday last, containing at least sixty-four nominations, of which several are eastern dogs.

J. Malcolm Forbes's California-bred colt Arion clipped a second of a second off his mark at Nashville yesterday, thereby reducing the three-year-old stallion record to 2:10 1/2, and placing it on equal terms with that of Sunol's three-year-old performance.

Austin Gibbons finds he cannot get down to the lightweight limit of 133 pounds, and he has challenged the 140-pound champion of England, Harry Nicklass. The latter is said to be a fighter of the hurricane order, much like La Blanche in his best days.

The California Club is considering the advisability of matching Jack Hall, the recently-arrived Australian welterweight, with Wilkes, the Easterner. Hall is willing to meet Wilkes at 140 pounds, and it is very probable that the match will be made within a few days.

Those who have seen Dick Burge, the English lightweight champion, are of the opinion that Jack McAuliffe will have an easy time of it with him. Burge is said to be clever and a hard hitter, but not in the American class. He gained his reputation by defeating Jim Carney.

Nothing definite has been done in connection with the California Club's new pavilion as yet, but it is understood that the place will be erected before the end of the year. The pavilion will seat 5000 persons, and it is intended to build for some of the big matches which are now being monopolized by New Orleans and Coney Island.

Articles of agreement were signed by Doc O'Connell, the premier 140-pound pugilist of Boston, and George Dawson, the Australian, at the California Athletic Club last Monday, by the terms of which the men are to fight for a purse of $8000, of which $500 goes to the loser, on the night of December 8 next. They are a remarkably evenly matched pair, and the contest should be an interesting one.

An athletic carnival is to be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, on the afternoon and evening of December 10, for the benefit of the fund of the New York Press Club. The programme has not yet been arranged, but it will embrace nearly every branch of sport, and doubtless the crack performers in various lines will be seen on the occasion. In addition to regular athletic events, football, lacrosse, etc., there will be exhibitions of equestrianism and horse racing. It has been decided to fix the general price of admission at $1, with 50 cents extra for a reserved seat.

In the list of stallions nominated to the Terre Haute purse of $10,000 for foals of 1892, that are to trot as two-year-olds in August or September, 1894, says the Breeder and Sportsman, we notice that the following owners have nominated their stallions: Palo Alto Stock Farm—Palo Alto, 2:08 1/2; Advertiser, 2:12; Electrically, 2:17 1/2; Asmoor, 2:20 1/2; Sport, 2:23 1/2; and Wilkes, 2:27 1/2; San Mateo Stock Farm—Guy Wilkes, 2:15 1/2; and Sable Wilkes, 2:22 1/2; La Sista Ranch—Eros, 2:29 1/2; A. A. Gierne, 2:31; Alfred G., 2:19 1/2; Marcus Daily—Lord Byron, 2:18; and Mascot, by Stamboul; Hobart Farm—Stamboul, 2:08. All colts and fillies by the above sires are eligible to this purse, but they must be entered and described on or before December 1 next.

MAN in business should endeavor to win the respect of his competitors by conducting his business upon a basis of the highest integrity. If we purchase a line of goods that will pay us a good fair margin at a dollar a yard, and we mark them at a dollar a yard, that is legitimate and honorable merchandising. If another merchant has the same line of goods and he has been satisfied to sell them for a dollar until he sees them in our window, and then to gain a supposed advantage, marks them down to 95 cents a yard, simply places the merchant in the role of a business wrecker. He not only loses the point he tries to make, but makes an enemy out of every salesman in the same department in the city. He gains no trade by it, and there is not a first-class house in America that pursues this policy. There is no house in the land that can build up a successful business by trying to pull some one else down. The public has no confidence in this style of warfare. A merchant who expects to gain trade by employing the help away from another merchant, loses the very point he expects to make. It only makes the merchant a little more energetic, and the result is generally an increase in trade in this department. A merchant who thinks any one particular clerk can carry any more trade away from a house than another who takes the place can bring into the house, is a very dull merchant indeed. It is certainly to the advantage of a clerk to get all the salary they can, and when any merchant bids higher than we pay, the employee is advised to take the position if in their judgment it is best. For our part we raise no salaries upon the bidding of another merchant. Competition in prices is too keen to be caught with poor bait. We make it a rule to advance salaries upon merit, and our average salary is the best in the city. Besides we close every night in the week. We keep closed on five holidays in the year, and we endeavor to look after the best interests of all our employees. We endeavor to impress them with the idea they are better than the average clerks, and in doing so we endeavor to command their respect. No house in all this city can show one-half the increase we are now making.
